

Shaun Igo

Shaun is the son of Julie Minter and Scott Igo. He is a 1992 honor graduate of Columbia High School. Shaun, a 6'-10" center for the Roughneck basketball team, led the Necks to the playoffs in 1991 and 1992 seasons.

He was a two time District MVP, claiming the honors in the 1991 and 1992 seasons. Shaun also garnered All-State honors for the 1991 and 1992 seasons.

After Columbia, Shaun received a basketball scholarship to Rice University. Shaun received All Southwest Conference honors in 1996 and All Western Athletic Conference honors in 1997. Shaun earned conference player of the week honors four times during his career with the Owls. Shaun finished his career as Rice's all-time leader in blocked shots. Shaun graduated from Rice in 1997 with a degree in mathematics, economics and analysis.

After Rice, Shaun played briefly with the San Antonio Spurs and spent time on the Summer league rosters of the Dallas Mavericks, Vancouver Grizzlies, Phoenix Suns, and Sacramento Kings. He also had a brief European professional career in Belgium.

Shaun is employed as fitness manager at the 24 Hour Fitness in Rice Village in Houston and currently lives in Manvel with his wife Larisa and their children, Caden, Levi, and Zane.